

Saskatchewan Research Council (SRC) Analytical Laboratories After-Hours Service

- The SRC Analytical Laboratories normal working hours are Monday to Friday, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. The laboratories are closed on statutory holidays.
- Samples for microbiological testing are accepted from Monday to Friday. Samples received on Friday are counted on Saturday. If you require notification of results on Saturday, please include that information with samples.
- Special arrangements can be made for after-hours receipt of samples or testing. Some advance notice is required, depending on the number and type of samples and the parameters being analysed. Extra charges will apply and will be based on number of staff and amount of time required for testing.
- The after-hours emergency number is 1-800-240-8808 (933-6932 in Saskatoon). If an emergency situation occurs outside of normal working hours, calling this number will give you the number of the SRC Analytical personnel on call. However, testing of samples may not be able to start until the next working day. The laboratories do many different test parameters and it may not be possible to locate lab personnel after-hours who are able to carry out the required testing.
